

Human Resources

CordenPharma Bergamo believes that one of fundamental factors of success is the human capital of the company and that it is important to offer its employees a stimulating working environment. The talents and motivation of the individual worker are the factors that determine the company's true competitive advantage and these also form the basis of its entire human resources management system. CordenPharma Bergamo's strategy aims to leverage resources, including through continuous training courses for the development of new skills.